Step 4: Get Your Public Key

1. In your EmailJS Dashboard, click “Account” in the left sidebar

4. Copy this key — you’ll need it

Step 5: Update Your Website Code

Open the HTML file and find this section at the top of the <script> tag:

const EMAILJS_CONFIG = {
  PUBLIC_KEY: 'YOUR_PUBLIC_KEY',           // ← Replace this SERVICE_ID: 'YOUR_SERVICE_ID',          // ← Replace this ADMIN_TEMPLATE_ID: 'template_admin',     // ← Replace this USER_TEMPLATE_ID: 'template_user',      // ← Replace this
  ADMIN_EMAIL: 'your-email@example.com'    // ← Replace this with YOUR email

Replace with your actual values:

const EMAILJS_CONFIG = {
  PUBLIC_KEY: 'user_your_actual_key_here',
  SERVICE_ID: 'service_your_actual_id_here',
  ADMIN_TEMPLATE_ID: 'template_admin_notification_id',

USER_TEMPLATE_ID: 'template_user_confirmation_id',
ADMIN_EMAIL: 'youremail@gmail.com' // ← Your email where you want notifications

Step 6: Test Your Setup

1. Open your website in a browser
 2. Scroll to the newsletter section
 3. Enter an email address
 4. Click “Subscribe”
 5. You should see:
 - A loading spinner
 - Button turns green with checkmark
 - “Successfully subscribed!” message
 6. Check both email addresses:
 - Your admin email → Should receive notification
 - The subscriber email → Should receive welcome message

Troubleshooting

“Failed to send emails” error

- Double-check all IDs and keys are correct
- Make sure your EmailJS account is verified
- Check browser console (F12 → Console) for specific errors

Emails not arriving

- Check spam/junk folders
- Verify your email service is connected properly in EmailJS
- Gmail users: Check “Promotions” tab

“Invalid template ID” error

- Make sure template IDs match exactly (case-sensitive)
 - Template IDs usually start with `template_`

Free Tier Limits (EmailJS)

- 200 emails per month (usually enough for starting)
 - If you need more, upgrade to paid plan ($5/month for 10,000 emails)
